Join the celebrations for Europe Week: a perfect occasion to sing, read, listen, discover and discuss

May greets us not only with beautiful sunshine, but also with a number of exciting events on a European theme. Once again, the EU Office in Chemnitz has teamed up with many other local organisations to invite citizens to Europe Week, which will be hosted nationwide from 4 to 12 May 2019.

One particular highlight is European Neighbours' Day, which kicks off at 4 p.m. on Neumarkt square on 9 May with everybody singing the Anthem of Europe. Anyone who loves to sing or play an instrument is warmly invited to join in with a rousing rendition of "Ode to Joy". Straight afterwards, you can head to the TIETZ cultural centre to hear readings by Czech authors, a great afternoon that concludes with a traditional Czech buffet. The World Café on 10 May is a forum for interested visitors to share their experiences and knowledge on a variety of subjects. Finally, the Rosenhof will be transformed into a vibrant buzz of activity at 2 p.m. European Neighbours' Day will be celebrated in fitting style with an extensive programme of music and dance performances, plus sports and games at the stands of various Chemnitz institutions.

Chemnitz is also expecting visitors from its Finnish partner city, Tampere. Four photographers will proudly present their exhibition TAMPERE DOK at the Volkshochschule Chemnitz (Chemnitz Adult Education Centre), displaying images that explore the subject of urban changes in their home city. The exhibition opens on 7 May at 6 p.m. On the same day, these esteemed Finnish guests will be hosting two workshops for anyone with an interest in photography; sign up free of charge on the Volkshochschule website.

It's well worth taking a look at the Europe Week programme. In addition to many other activities, there's also a panel discussion on "Europe & youth: European civil society is young" at the Weltecho cultural centre, while the solaris Förderzentrum für Jugend und Umwelt gGmbH (Centre for Youth and the Environment) will explain how European voluntary service works. The international drama festival NONSTOP EUROPA! will bring Europe Week to a sensational close; it's open every day from 11 to 19 May at the Schauspielhaus Chemnitz.

International get-together for older citizens on Women's Day in Chemnitz

Friendships blossomed after a chance encounter between two senior citizen clubs from Louny and Chemnitz (Bürgertreff "bei Heckerts" social club). In the summer of 2018, a group of senior citizens from living communities in Chemnitz's Heckert neighbourhood went to a village festival in the Erzgebirge region, where they happened to bump into members of a senior citizens' club from the town of Louny in the Czech Republic. Despite the initial language barrier, the two groups stayed in touch and further get-togethers were planned. After making the trip to Louny for International Day of Older Persons on 1 October 2018, the Chemnitz residents welcomed their new Czech friends for coffee and cake at a Women's Day event and showed them around a few of the living communities run by the local Volkssolidarität association. A number of other joint projects are planned for the rest of the year, including a steamboat trip in Louny and a visit to the district festival in Heckert.

Symposium on the future of the city partnership between Ústí nad Labem and Chemnitz

On 3 and 4 April, Chemnitz association Die Brücke e. V. hosted a symposium to discuss the future of the city's partnership with Ústí nad Labem. Representatives from various cultural institutions in both cities came along to share project ideas and suggestions for future events. The aim is to get citizens more involved and to inject more life into the partnership. Speakers delivered talks on project funding and Chemnitz's application to become a European Capital of Culture in 2025.

EUROCITIES Culture Forum from 10 to 13 April 2019 in Chemnitz

The EUROCITIES Culture Forum offers those working in municipal cultural policy the chance to share experiences with other cities and to gain insights into the cultural life of their host city. From 10 to 13 April, Chemnitz welcomed around 115 members of the EUROCITIES Culture Forum from 57 European cities. Delegates came together to discuss “Municipal development and support from local cultural organisational networks” in order to highlight the importance of municipal collaboration in European cultural policy and to shape it in a way that is both sustainable and citizen-centred. The springboard for the forum this time was the development of a new cultural strategy for Chemnitz – involving cultural stakeholders and interest groups active in the field of cultural urban development.

A plenary session held at Chemnitz Culture and Congress Centre marked the official launch of the event, with Deputy Mayor Ralph Burghart greeting European guests with a speech in English, extolling the virtues of the Culture Forum as a symbol of how communities can come together. He went on to describe Europe as a great peace project, which can, however, no longer be taken for granted. Burghart then drew attention to the 40 institutions involved in the Culture Forum in Chemnitz and thanked the Chemnitz organisational team for their efforts. Next, Jaana Jalonen, Culture Forum Chair and City Councillor of Espoo, welcomed representatives from member states in German with a “Guten Morgen”.

The international forum delegates took an in-depth look at the work of various cultural institutions in Chemnitz, gathering plenty of ideas and impressions to take home with them from their visits. Museums such as the Natural History Museum, the Art Collections and the Railway Museum, as well as smaller cultural associations including Kreatives Chemnitz e. V., DELPHIN-Projekte gGmbH and KOMPLEX, were also represented at the event. At the final session on Friday, the best practices presented during the visits were praised as highly inspiring. European guests were particularly impressed by Chemnitz’s industrial culture, cross-generational work and the development potential that the free space in the city offers. There was even talk of the “luxury of emptiness”.

The cultural strategy presented and discussed during the conference is now available in English and can be viewed as a PDF or as a printed version.
